W. J. HOWARD'S PROTEST SERVED

It is difficult to say what Mayor McCallin will do with the Diamond alley widening ordinance. To a DISPATCH reporter he said yesterday afternoon that he had not even read the ordinance and didn't know what he would do. He added there was no hurry about it, and he intended to take his time. To another gentleman, it is alleged, the Mayor said yesterday that he had not signed the ordinance, and that he didn't think he would sign it. He did not say, however, that he would veto the ordinance. He may allow it to become a law without his signature. A voluminous remonstrance, addressed to Mayor McCallin by Mr. W. J. Howard, repre-senting the Howard estate, was read by His Honor yesterday. Its salient features are as MR. HOWARD'S PROTEST.

The impression has been created that the im-rovement is desired by the owners of the prop-The impression has been created that the Improvement is desired by the owners of the property on the second square: that the advantages to them are so great that they are willing to have their property apprepriated and pay their share of the damages to arise therefrom. This is true to the extent that the original petitions of property owners to Councils, and on fie, asking for the Improvement (a copy inclosed herewith) number is, representing about 436 feet front, out of a total of 1,663 feet. Of these 15,0wners, 10 of them, representing about 436 feet have acquired titles to the property between January and April, 1888. Thus figures may not be perfectly exact (from want of time to fully investigate them), but are derived from the petition, the plan in the office of the Hoard of Viewers, and the record of deeds in the Recorder's office (a memorandum of which is inclosed), but are sufficiently so to enable you to determine whether this movement has its origin and propelling power in a disinterested love for the public welfare. Whenever the public necessity requires the appropriation of private property for public improvement it can, and should, be taxed apon payment of damages, or adequate security teing given therefor. But in a case where real estate "trusts" or "syndicates" are formed for real or auspected purposes of private profit or a few of its citizens, and under any pretext and representations, it should be realisted at every step of its progress.

Allow we to call your attention to section 8. rogress.

The ordinance directs the Chief of Public Works, within 60 days from its passage, to survey and widen two squares of the alley, and open the same through the Public Market square, etc., and that the damages to be caused thereby, and the henefits to pay the same, be assessed and collected in accordance with the act of Assembly of May 16, 1880.

The first section of said act provides that "be fore any street or alley shall be opened for public use, and before any private property shall be taken for the purpose aforesaid, all damages which any owner of property may sustain, or be likely to sustain, shall first be ascertained and likely to sustain, shall first be ascertained and paid as bereinafter directed." The eighth section of the act requires the Viewers, after "ascertaining the whole amount of damages, to equitably, justly, and without partiality, to assess the same upon the properties that may, or will likely, be benefited by said improvement.

"Compensation" means money, and "payment" or "security for payment" are words of no doubtful meaning. Are the "benefits" assessed upon the lots of some other person "compensation" or money or even "security?" True, they may or may not be collected by the city after years of litigation, for it is very rarely the person who has a "benefit" thrust upon him, sees its fitness or advantage in the same light as the viewers who bestow it. And if so, and as collected, how shall they be distributed among those enfitness or advantage in the same tight as the viewers who bestow it. And if so, and as collected, how shall they be distributed among those entitled to damages? They are not even liens until 36 days after refusal to pay and they are filed in court. And who shall say how many mortgages and liens exist to-day upon property that may be listle for "benefits."

Your Honor will bear in mind that this is not an ordinance to pave, grade, curb or sewer a street, where benefits are property applicable to the lots benefited, but it is one which takes 35 feet of private property from two squares of the thickly built up portion of the city, every foot of which is occupied by store, manufactories, warehouses, houses or valuable improvements. These are all to be torn down or dismantled, owners deprived of current root, while taxes continue. Unser the said act of Assembly damayers for any improvements, made upon their property

THROUGH THE MARKET BOUSE The ordinance directs the opening of a 50-foot The ordinance directs the opening of accessors street through the two market squares, with the arcade (whatever that may be) through the old City Hall, to connect with Diamond alley, 40 feet wide, thence extending to Liberty avenue. Exclusive of the streets, each of these squares is 70 feet through, or 140 feet of city property, part occupied by the old hall and part by the market upied by the old nail and part by the market onese. Will the butchers and onler occupants of alls to be evicted be provided with other and etter facilities for their business to compensate even for their losses? Will the city aim damages, or claim exemption from secament of "benefits," or shall its roperty stand upon the same footing as to these the property of individuals. What will it cost o construct the street and the arreade 50 feet wide brough the old hall? How much for paving, orbing severs, etc." through the old hall? How much for paving, curbing, sewers, etc.?

Assurances are quietly given out by many prominent individuals, and doubtless you have heard them, that the widening and opening of this, the most valuable portion of Diamond street, is but the beginning of a grand avenue, extending via a bridge over the Aliegheny river from Manchester, via Diamond and Forbes streets, to the East End, to be embelished with a traction railway and palatial residences.

Mr. Howard alleges the opposition to such a scheme is based on "the secret and misleading manner in which it is conceived and undertaken." If the Mayor thinks the cost should be paid out of general taxes, Mr. Howard asks: "Would it be imprudent to require the petitioners who are so anxious for the widening and opening, and so profuse in assurances of and opening, and so profuse in assurances of con-liability of the city, to give security to indemnify?" Otherwise, he asks the Mayor's isapproval of the ordinance.

Mayor McCallin said last night he would get egal advice on the subject.
The petition to which Mr. Howard refers is that presented to Councils, and shows the names and feet of frontage represented in it, as follows: names and feet of frontage represented in it, as follows:

A VERY STRONG STATEMENT.

or That the South Fork Club Was Buying Cinims—An Official Talks—These Who Suffered May Sive Up Hope of

Rumors of all kinds have been rife about the Rumors of all kinds have been rile about the South Fork Fishing Club since the new chrono-logical reckoning came in vogue, in other words, since the Johnstown flood. One more came flitting in yesterday, in the shape of a re-port that a well-known literary gontleman was in Sang Hollow or Johnstown, as an emissary of the South Fork Club, engaged in the delicate business of settling sufferers' claims for dam-ages against the club for such nominal sums as force of circumstances would admit. The fact was ascertained that the gentleman in question force of circumstances would admit. The fact was ascertained that the gentleman in question really was on the spot as represented, and, armed with this piece of information, an official of the club was seen and placed in possession of the somewhat intangible rumor.

"Now, really," said the official, "this is the most absurd story which has yet originated as a sequence to the flood. It is so absurd as to be really brilliant. The gentleman in question is certainly in Johnstown, for I met him there yesterday, but I can assure THE DISPATCH that he is in L. way, shape or manner connected with or representing the club in any capacity whatsoever.

"I may as well give you a few reasons why such a move is positively out of the question. If the club was so foolish as to pay a 15 hill to any individual in settlement of either real or faccied damages, it would simply be acknowledging a legal liability which does and cannot exist, according to the statutory law of this commonwealth. Our solicitor recently obliged THE DISPATCH with a most accurate and discursive idea of the legal status of the matter, and it is not necessary for me to go over that ground again. We expect suits for damages brought against us upon the general ground that it is easy to sue for damages. We shall make a stiff fight, as a matter of course, in order to settle once and for all the financial responsibility for the damage. We have the best legal advice in the Commonwealth on our side of the case, and have no fears as to its outcome."

"But, over and beyond the question of re-or the case, and have no rears as to be out our come."

"But, over and beyond the question of responsibility for damages, suppose—suppose—that a judgment was obtained, how could it be collected and upon what property could a judgment creditor levy? The club is utterly bankrupt, its property ruined and swept away. It still has some land out of which quit-claim deeds were given on small detached pieces in order to enable individuals to erect individual cottages. On not one of these has the club the slightest lien. cottages. On not one of these has the club the slightest lien.

"It may not be generally known, but just prior to the disaster the club placed a morrage of $36,000 upon its entire property in order to put in progress certain improvements. It makes no difference who the holders of the mortgage are. They simply hold a prior claim upon the property, which would be good in any court.

court.

"I am not speaking defiantly of those roined by the disaster, nor has the club ever taken a beastful or defiant attitude in regard to the losers by the flood. I will simply say that those who hope to recover damages from the South Fork Fishing Club might as well abandon all hope, for we do not believe that the club will ever pay out a dollar upon any claim for damages of any nature."

WILL TAKE A REST.

The Ladies of the Reilef Association Close the Headquarters Temporarily.

Last night the ladies of the Johnstown Re lief Committee closed their headquarters temporarily, and will take a vacation until Monday. Most of the ladies went out of town Monday. Most of the ladies went out of town yesterday to spend the Fourth, and left Mrs. James Patterson, of Center avenue in charge.

Mrs. Patterson received a letter from Mrs.

Harriet Patterson, of Johnstown, which stated that the writer had found the three children of Nimrod McCelcar staying with their aunt, Mrs. Beale, at Braddock. Shortly their aunt, Mrs. Beale, at Braddock. Shortly after the letter was received Mrs. Mc-Devit, of Port Perry, came in and said that the children were staying with her. McCelcar was janitor of the Presbyterian Church, and lived on Main street, Johnstown, before the flood. Mrs. McDevit was furnished with a full supply of clothing and bedding, and a box of grocerica for the children. Howard Morrow worked in the wire works and lived at 119 Market street, Johnstown. He was supplied with a suit of clothes. He is now working in Oliver & Roberts' wire mill on the Southside. Mrs. Elien Eowers was given a supply of clothing for Richard Bowers, his wife and two children, who are staying with her at Latrobe.

clothing for Richard Bowers, his wife and two children, who are staying with her at Latrobe.

Ludwig Maballeder came down from Cambria City and got part of a suit of clothes. He went back to Johnstown and will come again on Mcnday to get the rest of the suit. He lived at 223 Chestnut street, Johnstown. Daniel Donovan, of Minersville, near Johnstown, got a suit of clothes. He was employed on the railroad, and after the flood helped to save some of the unfortunates. He is now employed at the Westinghouse Air Brake works. J. R. Uber, of Verona, wants a bed lounge for W. H. Rosensteel, who was injured in the flood and is now staying with Mr. Uber. He also wants some clothing. The order has not yet been filled. Mrs. William Kagrise, of No. 61 Mahon avenue, Pittaburg, wants some clothing. He order will be filled next week. Mrs. Charles Stern, of 407 East etreet, Allegheny, got clothing for herself and two bables. Watchman Collins found the box belonging to Mrs. Minnie Andrews, of Mill station, en the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which was lost last week. It was shipped to the owner. Phineas Barnes was supplied with medical cotton. H. J. Williams got clothing for his family. He was formerly a well-to-do painter at the corner of Walnut and Chestnut streets, Johnstown. He is now at Mansfield.

Married at the Cathedral. By Rev. Dr. Wall, of St. Paul's Cathedral, Mr. Andrew C. Briceland, of the Fourth ward, Pittsburg, was married last evening to Miss Catharine Stephens, of Allegheny. The bride has been one of the most expert saleswomen in the two cities, and the groom a valued commercial traveler. After the wedding supper, in the home of the bride's parents, the happy pair went East. On their return they will begin housekeeping in Allegheny.

WHERE CAN DORA BE?

Is Still the Puzzling Question in Alderman Hartman's Office.

THE 'SQUIRE'S DIFFERENT TALES.

Mrs. Steplein Relates flow Her Daughter Became a Servant Girl.

the excitement about her whereabouts is still agitating the public as much as ever. In spite of the alleged refutations on the part of an afternoon paper, 'Squire Hartman again relterated his statement made to THE DIS-PATCH reporter last Monday night, saying that an information against Mr. Bakewell had been made. When the Aiderman was asked last night whether an examination of some of the girls was to take place he said "No," and that he work the thing together.

"On Saturday night," the 'Squire stated. "the girls will all be here, and an examination will be held. Mr. Dean has promised to be present, and we will conduct the case to-gether."

But although the 'Squire said that, there But although the 'Squire said that, there were five young girls, among others a sister of Dora Steplein, in the office last night, and the Alderman had a consultation with them for nearly an hour. The subject discussed by the party was not divulged, and all took place behind closed doors.

A visit was also made to the house of Mrs. Steplein, on Birmingham avenue, and during the conversation with the old lady the latter stated:

"I do not know where my daughter is, but of course I should like to. She never stayed away from home before without letting me know where she was. She would always come home by 9 or 10 o'clock in the evening. If she had gone away on her own accord I believe she would have let me know before this."

At this point her daughter remarked that she believed her sister might have gone away of her own free will.

When Mrs. Steplein was asked whether she had made an information against Mr. Bakewell, she said:

"What was I to do? My child had left me and I knew him to have had some intercourse with her. Was it not natural that I should suspect him before anybody else? Of course I san not positive that he is the man. and therefore I let the charge rest until I have found my child, and I want to find her, because I need her in my household, and I need the money she used to bring me."

"Have you ever obtained any money from Mr. Bakewell?"

"No, I never did!"

HOW THEY BECAME ACQUAINTED. "I do not know where my daughter is, but of

HOW THEY BECAME ACQUAINTED.

"How did the gentleman become acquainted with your daughter?"

"It was in the week before Easter when she was laid off at the cigarshop where she worked as a stripper. She then told me that she was going to get a situation as a hired girl. She went to an employment office on the corner of Seventh avenue and Grant street. She told me when she got to the door a gentleman was standing on the opposite side of the street and he watched her going in. While she was in the office making inquiries for a situation he came in and he told her that he wanted a girl to live in the country I told her to be careful and not forget that it was holy week and not to eat meat. Then she left, but she was only away for a week when she returned. I do not know the reason why she left the place, but she said she wanted to go back to the shop. She never went hack to the country from that day to this. However, last Thursday morning I noticed that she and her clothes were gone and I have not seen her since. I went the next evening to make an information against her and against him."

"What will you do when you find her?"

him."
"What will you do when you find her?"
That I do not know yet. All I want is to find my daughter again." When she was asked whether she had no idea where Dora might be, her daughter answered in her mother's place: "If they would hunt outside of the c than around here, they would stand chance of finding a clew to her."

A POLICEMAN SUSPENDED.

Special Officer John Coslett is in trouble again, and the versions thereof are various, but what seemed to be definitely ascertained was that yesterday morning James tained was that yesterday morning James E. Clancy made an information against Coslett charging him with felonious assault and battery before Alderman Hartman. According to the story told Coslett assaulted John Campbell at midnight, at the corner of Carson and South Seventeenth streets, Clancy interfered, when, as charged, Coslett snapped a revolver at them. Three mea, two named Jarrett and Dick Erwein, interfered and Coslett finally made several arrests, but at the morning hearing no one appeared to prosecute the Jarretts and Campbell. An information was also made against Coslett before Alderman Cassidy. Coslett has been suspended pending an investigation.

The Coroner's jury in the case of George Myers, the boy who was scalded to death in the woolen mills of S. Bradley & Sons, yesterday woolen mills of S. Bradley & Sons, yesterday returned a verdict censuring the firm and the engineer, George Byington, for neglect. It was claimed that the firm should have given proper notice of the time of turning on steam, and that the engineer should have been sure no one was in the closet at the time. The jury also recommended that the exhaust pipe of the boilers be connected with the city sewer or the Allegheny river direct.

situated in the beautiful village of Canaadaigua, N.Y., is offered for sale by the undersigned.

The structure is four stories in height, including the basement, is built of brick and granite, of a style of architecture that prevailed in England at the beginning of the present century, the plans and drawings have been approved by the most eminent architects of both London and Edinburgh, to whom they were submitted by Mr. Greig.

Beside the natural beauties of the place, the grounds have been under the highest cultivation for 50 years: they include broad lawns, stately trees, extensive flower gardens, conservatories and graperies. Stables and uther outbaildings suitable to such an eatablishment are connected with the place. The property is located near the head of the principal street, in the most beautiful village in Western New York, upon elevated grounds that command extensive and magnificent views of the lake and surrounding country.

Canandaigua has a population of about 8,000, and its wide streets, extensive lawns and stately old houses bear testimony to the intelligence, cultivation and refinement of its people. Its educational advantages are of a hich order, there being within its borders an endowed institution for the education of boys and two widely celebrated schools for the instruction of young ladies. Its streets are provided with a thorough system of sewerage and are lighted by electricity, an abundant supply of pure water is furnished its innabitants from the beautiful lake which bears its name, the shores of which are dotted with charming summer homes, and upon a historic spot midway between its extremities is located a new, commodious and elegantly furnished hotel. Photographic views and further information furnished upon application to
